Jeg Ser De Bøgelyste Øer
Sneflokke Kommer Vrimlende
På Sjølund's Fagre Sletter
Der Er Ingenting I Verden Så Stille
Limfjorden
I Sne Står Urt Og Busk I Skjul
Jylland Mellem Tvende Have
Vort Hjem, Du Danske Jord
Der Er Et Yndigt Land
Der Er Hvidt Derude
Stille Hjerte, Sol Går Ned
Du Danske Sommer
Den Danske Sang
Der Er Et Yndigt Land
Havet Omkring Danmark
Se Dig Ud En Sommerdag
Som En Rejselysten Flåde
Danmark, Nu Blunder Den Lyse Nat
Hvor Smiler Fager Den Danske Kyst
Kong Kristian Stod Ved Højen Mast
Moders Navn Er En Himmelsk Lyd
I Danmark Er Jeg Født
Jeg Ved, Hvor Der Findes En Have

Spurven Sidder Stum Bag Kvist
Jeg Er Havren
Jeg Lægger Mig I Læet
Hist Hvor Vejen Slår En Bugt
Nu Lakker Det Mod Enden
Vi Elsker Vort Land
De Spillemand Snapped' Fiolen Fra Væg
Septembers Himmel Er Så Blå
Der Dukker Af Disen
Du Danske Mand
Jeg Bærer Med Smil Min Byrde
Nu Er Dagen Fuld Af Sang
Nu Lyser Løv I Lunde
Underlige Aftenlufter
Kær Est Du, Fødeland
Der Er Ingenting Der Maner
Her Har Hjertet Hjemme
Hyrden Græsser Sine Får
Storken Sidder På Bondens Tag

Han Kommer Med Sommer
Lysfyldt Morgen
Snart Er Natten Svunden
I Skyggen Vi Vanke
Den Grønne, Søde Vår
Danmark I Tusind År
Frihed Er Det Bedste Guld
Jeg Ved En Lærkerede
Lær Mig. Nattens Stjerne
Morgendug, Der Sagte Bæver
På Det Jævne
Solen Er Så Rød, Mor
Som Dybest Brønd
Vi Sletternes Sønner
Alle Mine Længsler
Det, Som Lysner Over Vangen
Nu Er Det Længe Siden
Sig Nærmer Tiden, Da Jeg Må Væk
Vor Sol Er Blevet Kold
I Danmark Er Jeg Født

 Udrust Dig, Helt Fra Golgata
 Kærlighed Fra Gud
 Til Himlene Rækker Din Miskundhed
 Hil Dig, Frelser Og Forsoner
 Den Store Mester Kommer
 Påskeblomst! Hvad Vil Du Her
 Tunge, Mørke Natteskyer
 I Al Sin Glans Nu Stråler Solen
 Sig Månen Lamksom Hæver
 Vi Pløjed' Og Vi Så'de
 Altid Frejdig, Når Du Går
 Bliv Hos Os, Når Dagen Hælder
 Julen Har Bragt Velsignet Bud
 Nu Titte Til Hinanden
 Nu Vågne Alle Guds Fugle Små

 Til Himlene Rækker Din Miskundhed
 Påskeblomst! Hvad Vil Du Her
 Tunge, Mørke Natteskyer
 I Al Sin Glans Nu Stråler Solen
 Sig Månen Langsom Hæver
 Vi Pløjed' Og Vi Så'de
 Altid Frejdig, Når Du Går
 Bliv Hos Os, Når Dagen Hælder

Bernhard Lewkovitch

Bernhard Lewkovitch composer, conductor (b. May 28, 1927) is a leading figure in the field of Danish church music. He describes himself as more of a leading singer/precentor in the 14th and 15th centuries sense than as a composer with orders to supply the church new music in line and tradition with the names like Josquin and Victoria, who together with Monteverdi are the stylistic and structural influence on many of his works.

Though Bernhard Lewkovitch is deeply rooted in the Catholic church's liturgy and musical tradition, he is at the same time a uncompromisingly experimental composer. In each of his works there is this element of duality which is one of the reasons that his works are not merely functional music. Because of their enormous demand and manifold musical challenge to the performers, his works are played and listened to outside the church.

Bernhard Lewkovitch's works have been performed at many of the international festivals for new music. He has participated three international competitions in all of which he has been awarded the first prize. In 1947 he landed a post of organist at St. Ansgar Cathedral in Copenhagen where he had also served as its precentor from 1953-63. In 1953 Lewkovitch founded Schola Gregoriana and two years later he established Schola Cantorum - the first ever Danish professional ensemble specialising in Renaissance choral music.

Bent Lorentzen

Bent Lorentzen born 1935, studied music with Knud Jeppesen at the University of Aarhus and at the Royal Academy of Music in Copenhagen from which he graduated in 1960. Taught at the Royal Academy of Music in Aarhus 1962-1971 and 1996. Attended Darmstadt in 1965. Received scholarship at the Electronic Music Studio 1967-68. Since 1971, Lorentzen has been living in Copenhagen as a full time composer.

Lorentzen took an early interest in serial principles, and during the 60s he applied this technique of composition to a growing number of parameters. He was among the first Danish composers to explore the sonic element of music. He has written, among others, several operas: Euridice 1965, Die Musik kommt mir äusserst bekannt vor! 1974, Eine wundersame Liebesgeschichte 1979, Mette 1980, Klovnene 1982, Fackeltanz 1986, Bill and Julia 1991, Orfeo 1992, The Magic Brilliant 1992 and The Scatterbrain 1994, Pergolesi's Homeservice 1997.

Lorentzen is the recipient of numerous awards, among others, Prix Italia for Euridice in 1970, the first prize at the International Composition Competition for Paradiesvogel 1984, the first prize at the International Composition Competition for Choral Music in Austria 1987, the first prize at Vienna Modern Masters for Piano Concerto 1991 and Carl Nielsen Prize 1995.

Per Nørgård

Per Nørgård was born in 1932 and while still in his youth he studied with the great Danish composer Vagn Holmboe. Until 1956 he attended the Royal Danish Academy of Music where he continued his studies also with Finn Høffding. Later he studied in Paris with Nadia Boulanger. After returning from Paris he has taught composition at the academies in Odense and Copenhagen, and at the Royal Academy of Music in Århus, where he was appointed professor in 1987. He has composed operas, concertos, orchestral works (5 of which are symphonies), works for choir; solo music for piano, accordion and percussion; and since the beginning of the 1970s a great number of important guitar works. In 1974 Nørgård received the Nordic Council's Music Prize.

After initial Scandinavian influences from Sibelius and from Holmboe in the 1950s, Nørgård raised his artistic objections by using musical collage and an often violent orchestration. In 1959 he discovered the "infinite series" which he used to create hierarchically constructed music. This is a music in which structure on one level can be heard on all tempo-levels in much the same way that fractals are seen. Nørgård explored the possibilities of infinite series during the 1960s and 1970s in many of his works, among those his Third Symphony - an overwhelmingly beautiful and romantic sounding new music - and the internationally famed guitar work Returns, which is recorded here.

By the end of the 1970s he became interested in, and was inspired by, the tragic Swiss figure Adolf Wölfl. Nørgård has introduced segments of Wölfl's posthumous writings into his works, among these the opera The Divine Circus, the Fourth Symphony and the guitar work Papalagi.

In his later works Nørgård has turned towards a more absolute, yet abstract musical style with multidimensional rhythm series, new types of accellerandi, and a new form of serially produced musical material which he calls "tonal lakes". This year, 1996, Per Nørgård was awarded the prestigious Léonie Sonning Music Prize.

Ib Nørholm

(born Jan. 24, 1931 in Copenhagen), son of black-and-white artist Knud Nørholm and Edle Nørholm b. Brolyng). Began piano studies at the age of nine and organ lessons at the age of 15. While still at school, he started composing works including a chamber opera. In 1950 he enrolled at the Royal Academy of Music in Copenhagen where he studied composition with Vagn Holmboe. He graduated from the Academy with diploma in theory, history, organ, teaching and church music.

He was music critic for the Danish newspaper Information (1956-64) and in 1964 was appointed organist at Bethlehemskirken in Copenhagen. He taught music theory and history at the Academy of Music in Odense (1963-72). In 1973 he was appointed lecturer at the Royal Academy of Music in Copenhagen where since 1981 he has held professorship in composition.

Ib Nørholm received the prestigious Carl Nielsen Prize in 2009.

His earlier works during the course of 1950s were marked by the tonal and lyrical tradition of the post-Nielsen era. Nørholm, however, soon declared his departure from the Danish tradition with his first serial composition, the Piano Trio No.1 op. 22, in 1959 when he became actively involved in the European modernism movement as seen in the works by Schoenberg, Messiaen, Stockhausen to mention a few. During the early 60s he composed several other serial works including Fluctuations op. 25 which won first prize at the 1964 Gaudeamus Festival.

From the mid-60s and on Nørholm has sought simplicity and openness in his compositions as well as new and broader possibilities in sound. His works often display theatrical approaches where performers are not only playing their instruments but also engaging other activities on the stage. Some of the recent examples of such works are Perhaps a Requiem op. 143 (1997) and Sonata for Harp op. 149 (1998).

Nørholm's collaboration with the renowned Danish poet Poul Borum (1934-1996) produced numerous works in both chamber and orchestral music. The last orchestral work based on the text of Borum The Elf Mirror Op. 141 was hailed in one of the major Danish newspapers as "a milestone in the Danish music history" when first performed in Copenhagen in 1996.

Leif Segerstam (born 1944) studied at the Sibelius Academy receiving his diploma in violin and conducting. In 1962 he won the Maj Lind piano competition and made his debut as a violinist the same year. The following two years he continued his studies in New York at the Juilliard School of Music, where he studied conducting with Jean Morel and violin with Louis Persinger. Returning to Finland he was conducting at the Finnish National Opera for three seasons, before accepting a position as conductor at the Stockholm Royal Opera where he became Musical Director in 1971. He thereafter held positions with the ORF Radio Symphony Orchestra in Vienna, the Finnish Radio Symphony Orchestra, Staatsphilharmonie Rheinland-Pfalz, and the Danish National Radio Symphony Orchestra where he is chief conductor since 1989. Guest appearances include the Metropolitan Opera, Covent Garden, La Scala, Teatro Colon, and the Vienna State Opera.

His own compositions cover a large production of orchestral works, presently totalling 17 symphonies, as well as a huge amount of chamber music with the number of string quartets reaching 26, written in what he defines as his “free pulsative” style. Intensive musical expression and virtuosity in the handling of both vocal and instrumental forms, coupled with an inventive freshness, make Leif Segerstam one of the most unique and interesting Scandinavian composers.

Born, like Carl Nielsen, on the Danish island of Fyn (Funen), Franz Syberg (5 July 1904 - 11 December 1955) was the child of talented parents. Both Fritz and Anna Syberg were painters with a modest reputation, able to inculcate in their seven children an appreciation of the arts. Several went on to distinguish themselves in the visual arts although only Franz, their fifth child, was to opt for a musical career. Like many before him, he made the academic pilgrimage to Leipzig where, between 1922 and 1928, he studied at the Conservatoire and privately with Werner Hubschmann, at the same time studying the organ with the eminent Sigfrid Karg-Elert. War had done little to diminish Leipzig's status as the musical capital of Germany; now, in the heady days of the Weimar Republic, it provided the young Syberg with the kind of intellectual artistic society to which he felt he belonged and which he actively sought out on returning to København at the age of twenty six.

Syberg's intention was that he should earn his living as a composer, but he quickly grasped the truth that, despite attracting some attention for his works, such an ambition would be difficult to realise. Instead he obtained his qualifying diploma as an organist and, in 1932, was successful in applying for the organist's post in his home town of Kerteminde. It was a position he was to hold for the rest of his life. Naturally he continued to compose, but the chronology of his activities from thereon becomes uneven. Several works were written in the early 1930s, few in the middle years of the decade and nothing after 1942, despite the promise of a renewed period of creativity from 1938 onwards. The final years of Syberg's life were devoted to farming; his early death in 1955 was allegedly caused by a heart attack brought on after a disastrous fire at his farm.

Looking at the pattern of his career, some might conclude that Syberg was never really more than a gifted dilettante. Yet it is the dilettante's supreme advantage to be free to cultivate a wholly independent voice, able to live to compose rather than compose to live. And Syberg was nothing if not independent. Attempts to define his musical style will throw up some obvious points of contact, but then it would have been difficult to be a student in the Leipzig of the 1920s and not absorb a little Hindemith, a touch of Bartok, a dash of Stravinsky or even Schoenberg. Yet even this group of names is too widely divergent to tell us anything further. Perhaps the most remarkable observation is how little Syberg owes to Nielsen. Here and there one can detect obvious superficial resemblances, but there is nothing of Nielsen's tonal organisation, nor indeed any lasting interest in those Germanically derived genres like the symphony which Nielsen was content to adapt to his own ends.
